Events independent of the bank may take place in the following situations:
- time difference between a country of the payer and that of the beneficiary,
- limited time of accepting by the bank of the beneficiary the funds, especially in the currencies which are uncommon in a given country,
- a practice in a given country, according to which the funds are always booked on the next day after receiving the payment announcement,
- holiday in the country of the beneficiary or in a country which acts as an agent in the payment transaction.

We hope that the payments made by you will be ordered in advance to ensure receiving the funds by a beneficiary on the expected date.
